Emek Üşenmez, was born in 1981, completed his primary, secondary and college education in Aksaray, his city of birth. He graduated in the Turkish Language and Literature Department of the University of Konya Selçuk's Science-Literature Faculty in 2004. Emek Üşenmez currently work as an associate professor (teaching fellow) at the University of Istanbul Rectorate's Language Institute. I have more been interesting The Middle Turkic (Karakhanid and Kharezm), Chagatai Turkic, The Old Anatolian Turkish (as part of Western-Oghuz Turkic), Ottoman Turkish and contemporary Turkish dialects such as Uzbek-TurkmenCrimean Tatar and in teaching Turkish as a foreign language for foreigners. In addition to these I am curious about Turkish manuscripts and cataloguing especially Ottoman and Chagatai manuscripts all around the World. I am currently working on the comparison of the Turkish words in the first Quranic translations in Turkish with Arabic and Persian. I have just published a commentary on the Yaqub al-Cxarhiy commentary written in Chagatay, in the 15th century in Mavaraunnahr.
